TUSTIN POLICE CHIEF CHARLES CELANO SELECTED AS 2015 AMBASSADOR OF PEACE

TUSTIN, CA. – The Violence Prevention Coalition of Orange County (VPCOC) has announced that Tustin Police Chief Charles Celano has been selected as a 2015 Ambassador of Peace for his outstanding contribution and commitment to the prevention of violence.

Chief Celano, nominated by OC Human Relations, will be recognized at the 19th Annual Ambassador of Peace Ceremony on June 5th. The VPCOC will present awards to representatives in education, public service, business/media partners, community agencies, as well as outstanding individuals and youth working to promote peace in their communities.

A 24 year veteran of the Tustin Police Department, Chief Celano has worked a variety of assignments, including Patrol Officer, Field Training Officer, Street Narcotics/Vice Detective, Orange County RNSP Detective, Gang Unit Sergeant, Patrol Area Commander and Captain overseeing Community Policing and Administrative Services.
